

We are delighted that this week our new website went live. We are aware of a few amendments which still need to be made, especially on the mobile site with regards to photograph placements and font. However, we would welcome your feedback. You will receive your password to enter the Parent's Area shortly. Please, when you have time, do look through the Safety and E Safety tab. There is lots of information you may find interesting. You will see below the next academic year's term dates. We hope you will find these useful. Wishing you all a lovely week end.
